PRIX EUROPA 2009 has been completed successfully; we thank the many colleagues from all over Europe for their active participation. Not the slightest hint of discouraging crisis atmosphere could be detected in October in Berlin – how wonderful!

The manifold feedback we received after the festival has confirmed us on our course: PRIX EUROPA is an event for programme-makers, it is about content, not glamour, about excellent programmes for television, radio and emerging media, for every citizen of this continent.

We are currently preparing the next festival:

Festival week: 16 – 23 October 2010.

Programme entries: from May 2010

Deadline for entries: 1 July 2010.

We are looking forward to you and your entries at PRIX EUROPA 2010.

Have a good winter.

Your PRIX EUROPA team

PRIX EUROPA - at a Glance

PRIX EUROPA is open to broadcasting and producing organisations alike and is therefore accessible to media professionals from all parts of Europe. It has grown into the continent's largest competition for television, radio and the emerging media, but has no commercial interest. The pan-European event is attended by well over 1,000 delegates from more than 40 countries. Adjudication for the PRIX EUROPA awards is transparent and democratic, carried out by open jury groups. The competition is held in three media and 9 categories. The awards are worth €6,000 and the official PRIX EUROPA TROPHY to each of the winners.
